Gerrid Gust is a 30-year-old farmer from Davidson, SK. He operates a mixed farm with his father, Steve, mother, Lorraine, and wife, Monica, growing a large variety of dry land crops and raising beef cattle.

Active within their community, Gerrid and Monica have three young children, aged four, two and two-months. Gerrid has been involved with a variety of organizations, such as the Davidson and District Economic Development Board, his local business association and the Prairie Diamond Credit Union Board.

Gerrid became involved with the Wheat Growers in in 2004 during the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) election in District 6 when he ran against Ian McCreary. He ran on a platform of marketing choice in Western Canada, believing that without threat of volume loss, the CWB would never adapt to change in the grain industry.

Through the Wheat Growers, Gerrid hope to meet many new people who are excited about agricultural policy, and also, to improve his own marketing skills.
