The Western Canadian Wheat Growers Association has been refreshed and revitalized with the appointment of a new board of directors and the election of a new executive. As the new directors, we are excited about moving forward. Our organization's successful 2004 convention, held March 18-19 in Calgary, Alberta, re-established the Wheat Growers as a voice for progressive prairie grain farmers. We have renewed this organization's commitment to its members, and are acting positively for changes to improve the viability and profitability of wheat production. As a voluntary farm organization, the Wheat Growers have spent 34 years bringing forth innovative, farmer-driven solutions, something we'll continue to do well into the future, harnessing the strengths of our members to improve agriculture in Western Canada.

As the president of the Western Canadian Wheat Growers, I look forward to a positive future. Based out of Mossbank, Saskatchewan, I intend to use my experience as both a farmer and a rural economic development officer to work toward an even stronger tomorrow. Three vice-presidents have also been elected . . . Curtis Hiebert of Sperling representing Manitoba, Dean Klippenstine of Regina representing Saskatchewan, and Doug Campbell of Cochrane representing Alberta. Randy Hoback of Canwood, Saskatchewan, serves as Chair of the Board. We're taking control of our business and our industry. Join us and become involved with some of the most progressive farmers in Canada.
